Miami – April X, 2019 – Totally Teachers Weekend! returns to Miami Seaquarium on Saturday, April 27 and Sunday, April 28, 2019 offering Miami-Dade, Broward and Palm Beach County teachers and school employees, in both private and public schools with proper school ID, free admission to Miami Seaquarium; plus, a discount for up to four guests at 50% off the regular admission.

Teachers are invited to visit the Education Center at Miami Seaquarium during Totally Teachers Weekend! for more information on the park's educational programs. Teachers may also enter to win a free field trip to Miami Seaquarium in the Education Center from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. There will be a random drawing from the entries received during the weekend and the winning teacher will receive a free group admission to Miami Seaquarium for up to 35 students, plus bus transportation and lunch for the students. One field trip will be awarded.

All teachers visiting the Education Center during the weekend will receive a certificate for an educational presentation on the park's temporary exhibit, 'Savage Ancient Seas', when they bring their class to Miami Seaquarium between now and June 8, 2019. (Note: field trip admission is not included). 'Savage Ancient Seas' is a display of spectacular and strange creatures that roamed the oceans thousands of years ago. The exhibition includes more than 50 prehistoric marine fossils, both cast and real specimens, mounted in extraordinary three-dimensional displays. Sampling the educational kiosks stationed throughout the exhibition, students can learn the story of how these creatures lived, and how most of them appear to have become extinct, along with the dinosaurs.

Teachers and school employees must show a valid school ID card or pay stub along with a picture ID to obtain the Totally Teachers discount. The offer is only valid on regular admission to Miami Seaquarium and is not combinable with any other offer.
